PRECIOUS METALS COMMENTARY

Gold prices are moderately lower and silver prices are slightly down in early-afternoon U.S. trading Thursday. Bearish near-term technical postures for gold and silver combined with no major fundamental news to drive the markets at present are allowing both metals prices to drift sideways to lower. August gold futures were last down $5.40 an ounce at $1,226.40. September Comex silver was last down $0.104 at $15.485 an ounce.

The key “outside markets” today find Nymex crude oil prices higher and trading just below $70.00 a barrel. The U.S. dollar index is higher today, which also added some selling pressure to the metals markets.

The big U.S. economic data point of the week is Friday’s first estimate of gross domestic product (GDP). The number is expected to come in at up a strong 4.4%. However, some analysts are even calling for a number of 5.0% or just above. Friday could be the most active trading day of the week for many markets, including the precious metals.

Technically, the gold bears have the solid overall near-term technical advantage. There are no strong, early clues to suggest a market bottom is close at hand. A three-month-old downtrend is in place on the daily bar chart. Gold bulls' next upside near-term price breakout objective is to produce a close above solid technical resistance at $1,250.00. Bears' next near-term downside price breakout objective is pushing prices below solid technical support at $1,200.00. Source: Kitco
